Richard Harwood OBE QC specialises in planning, environment and public law. He appears in courts, inquiries, examinations and hearings, including frequently in the Planning Court and appellate courts.

Voted as one of the top ten Planning Silks in Planning magazine's 2014 and 2015 surveys, he has appeared in many of the leading cases of recent years. Richard is also a leading commentator, a case editor of the Journal of Planning and Environment Law and the author of books including Planning Enforcement, Historic Environment Law and Planning Permission. In 2015 he was appointed by the Housing and Planning Minister as the sole lawyer member of the Local Plans Expert Group.

Philippa Jackson undertakes a broad range of civil work, with a particular emphasis on planning and environmental law, employment law and administrative and public law. Philippa has an extensive planning and environmental practice, including public inquiries, public examinations into development plan documents, and challenges in the High Court. She has been listed for the past three years as one of the top planning juniors under 35 by Planning Magazine (2013, 2014 and 2015).

Victoria Hutton is a planning and environmental law barrister at 39 Essex Chambers. She has consistently been rated as one of the top planning barristers under 35 by Planning Magazine (2016, 2015, 2014). Her work spans the breadth of planning and environmental law and she regularly appears in courts of all levels and at planning appeals. Her current work includes acting on behalf of a developer in their appeal against the refusal of planning permission for a crematorium in the green belt (junior to Peter Village Q.C.), promoting sites on behalf of various landowners through the local plans process and appearing on behalf of the proposed developer at a number of appeals following the refusal of planning permission for retail use. Victoria is also currently co-authoring (together with Richard Harwood Q.C.) a textbook on planning policy which is due to be published by Bloomsbury in 2017.
